

Forecast For Northern Ireland
Issued by Met Office Aberdeen
at 1600 on Sunday 14 Feb 2021

++ Valid for broadcast between 1800 and 0600

Headline:

Showers on Monday morning but dry in afternoon. Mild.

This Evening and Tonight:

Most places will stay dry overnight with a few clear periods and the odd light shower. It will be a much milder night with strong southerly winds gradually easing. Minimum temperature 6 deg C (43 deg F).

Monday:

Rather cloudy in the morning with scattered showers, then mainly dry in the afternoon with some sunshine. Another mild day with fresh southerly winds. Maximum temperature 11 deg C (52 deg F).

Outlook for Tuesday to Thursday:

A rather cloudy few days with some brighter interludes and scattered showers. It will be windy at times and staying milder than of late.

(C) Crown Copyright 2021. Published by the Met Office.